

The Magical Scorecard

Because magic is already showing up. You're just not writing it down.

Magic is already happening in your life, every single week, and most of it goes unnoticed.

This scorecard gives you a place to capture what's showing up so you actually see it, acknowledge it, and let it compound.

Money (Money + Sales)

Revenue that showed up, unexpected income, deals that closed, and financial gifts you didn't chase.

Appreciation (Gifts + Compliments)

Kind words someone took the time to share with you, gifts, recognition, and thank-you messages.

Gains (Experiences)

Moments that meant something, breakthroughs you had, lessons that landed, and adventures you lived.

Introductions (Connections / Intros / Referrals)

New people who showed up in your world, warm introductions, referrals, and doors that opened.

Chances (Invitations + Opportunities)

Invitations you received, opportunities that appeared, and open doors you didn't have to build yourself.

How to Use This

1. Document magic the moment it happens. Don't wait. Capture it in your phone, a notebook, wherever.
2. At the start of each week, review what showed up. Read it out loud if you can.
3. Notice the patterns. Where is magic concentrating? What category keeps filling up?
4. Share it with someone. Saying it out loud makes it real in a way that thinking about it never does.

I was living in magic and completely ignoring it. Once I started writing it down, I couldn't believe how much was already there.

- Coach Reg